Napoleon soars above waste reduction goal

The big picture: From FY17 to FY25, the Napoleon, Ohio plant reduced its landfill waste by 36%, far surpassing the original goal of 25% by FY25.

Go deeper: The team made some simple but impactful changes including adding central recycling areas with clear labeling to simplify sorting, training employees on processes, and improving partnerships with recycling vendors.

Why it matters: This change has meant:

- 283 fewer trailers on the road.
- $42,450 saved in light load fees.
- $137,762 increase in revenue from Gaylord tote recycling.

A huge thanks to both of these teams for their hard work and important impact as we look to reach our sustainability commitments and reduce waste costs.

Pictured above is one of the centralized recycling areas created at Napoleon.

Saving big on waste & utilities

Efficiently managing our resources not only promotes sustainable practices but can also lead to cost reductions. Check out these recent sustainability initiatives:

Significant utilities savings in Charlotte

The big picture: Using a new Utility Metering and Monitoring System (UMMS) and existing data tools, the Charlotte, N.C. plant is now analyzing electricity, natural gas, and water usage more effectively.

Why it matters: Because of this, the team identified a significant loss in compressed air. They then installed advanced sensors and controls that will save $23,000 annually in energy costs and another $20,000 in maintenance costs!

Redzone Liftoff: Sites find success with digital platform

Sites with Redzone, a specialized mobile platform for frontline team collaboration, have been very busy over the last few months implementing the new tool. Check out some of their latest accomplishments:

Downers Grove, Ill.

Downers Grove is the latest site to add Redzone to their location with a successful Go-Live during the first week of November. The team is now in full swing using the platform!

Hanover, Pa.

The Chips and HTC areas of the Hanover plant officially went live on Redzone in mid-September with the Pretzel Packaging area following in October. In just a few months, over 100 team members were trained on how to use the platform. They’ve been adding the Compliance and Learning modules during the month of December.

Napoleon, Ohio & Salem, Ore.

Our first two pilot sites, Salem and Napoleon, are now entering the second phase of implementation—the Learning Module! This module offers training directly on the floor with bite-sized training and real-time skill tracking, empowering employees to master machine operations and standard procedures as they work.

The Downers Grove team together on launch day.

The Salem, Ore. team works on the floor with the Redzone Learning Module.

Franklin, Wis.

Team Franklin is next in line to add the platform to their site. They have been busy working with the Connected Factory and IT teams to complete signal mapping and ensure they are ready to launch in January!

Charlotte, NC

Team Charlotte is also preparing for their Redzone launch the week of February 23. They’ve been working hard to ensure signals are ready, change management is in place, and everything is set for a successful launch!

All our teams are progressing well and have been seeing the value of the platform in action.

“Redzone Learning provides easy access to critical resources, while its mobile and on-demand content ensures that employees have the information they need right at their fingertips.
